White House Callers.

About Two Hundred Succeed in Seeing the President.

NAMES OF A FEW OF THEM.

A Number of Appointments Sent to the Senate — Congressman Mahoney Reported to Be Dying—Other Dispatches from Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—President Harrison's callers numbered in the neighborhood of 200 persons. A majority of the congressional callers brought friends with them, and these helped swell the crowd

Among those who succeeded in seeing the president were Senators Hawley, Platt, Faulkner, Mitchell, with an Oregon delegation; Manderson, Stewart, Hoar, Allison, Wilson of Iowa, Spooner, with some Wisconsin friends; Sawyer, Plumb and a few constituents; Representatives Houk, Perkins, Breckenridge, with Gen. Price of Kentucky; Cutcheon, with Col. Lincoln of the Grand Army Republic; Representatives Horr and Butler, Gen. E. King, with Judge Holt and Gen. Charles E. Brown of Ohio, "Corporal" James Tanner, of Brooklyn, the newly appointed pension commissioner, came with John Palmer, a prominent Grand Army Republic man, of Albany. Representative Farquhar, of New York, had a delegation with him

Nominations.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The president has sent to the senate the following nominations:

Second Lieut. W. A. Mercer, Eighth infantry, to be first lieutenant.

Assistant Paymaster Harry R. Sullivan to be passed assistant paymaster in the navy.

Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming Territory, to be governor of Wyoming Territory.

Benjamin F. White, of Dillon, Mont., to be governor of Montana.

Lee Moorehouse, of Oregon, to be agent for the Indians of the Umatilla agency in Oregon.

Robert V. Belt, of Maryland, to be assistant commissioner of Indian affairs.

Oscar M. [illegible], of Arkansas, to be marshal of the United States for the eastern district of Arkansas.

Charles C. Waters, of Arkansas, to be attorney of the United States for the eastern district of Arkansas.

A number of postmasters were also appointed.

It is considered almost settled that as a compromise, the president will appoint ex-Representative Valentine, of Nebraska, commissioner of the general land office.

Congressman Mahoney Dying.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—At midnight the physicians in attendance on ex-Congressman Peter P. Mahoney, had given up all hopes of his recovery, and said that his death was only a question of a few hours. Peter Mahoney was born in New York city, June 25, 1848. He was educated in the German schools of that city. He was engaged in the dry goods business for several years. He held no public office until he was elected to the Forty-ninth congress. He was re-elected to the Fiftieth congress, but in the last campaign he failed to receive the nomination at the hands of the Democratic convention. His successful competitor was John M. Clancy. To Mr. Mahoney's disappointment at that time his present illness is in part attributed. Mr. Mahoney was married only two months ago. His wife has been with him throughout his sickness

Getting Their Former Positions.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Postmaster General Wanamaker has appointed the following division superintendents of the railway mail service: First division, W. H. Bigelow, of Boston, Mass., vice George E. Darte; Second division, R. C. Jackson, of New York, vice W. F. Doolittle; Third division, C. W. Vickery, of Washington, vice Eugene Crenshaw; Fourth division, L. M. Terrell, of Atlanta, Ga., vice R. M. Turner; Fifth division, George W. Pepper, of Cleveland, O., vice F. B. Dodge. With the exception of Mr. Pepper, all of these new superintendents held the same positions four years ago to which they were appointed and were removed soon after Mr. Cleveland was elected president. Mr. Pepper is a railway postal clerk running between Chicago and Cleveland.

He Only Wanted a Good Man.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Representative Cox, of New York, called on the president "to talk census for a few minutes," as he said. "I drew up the bills providing for the last census and this one," said Mr. Cox, "and I am anxious to see that a good man be placed at the head of affairs. The work has been simplified considerably. We have reduced the number of possible philosophic treatises, artistic brochures, for where there were twenty-seven principal subjects in the tenth census, there will only be seven in the eleventh. I'm simply going to describe to the president the kind of a superintendent I think we ought to have. There seems to be plenty of good material willing to sacrifice itself."

The Liverpool Consulship.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—When application was made recently on behalf of Chauncey Filley, of Missouri, for the position of consul general at Liverpool it was announced that the place had been promised to an eastern man. It is said now that it is to be given to Thomas Sherman, of Maine, who has for several years occupied a comparatively important position in the state department. Mr. Sherman was Mr. Blaine's private secretary for many years. The Liverpool consulship is one of the best of the consular offices.

Mr. New Will Be Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—John C. New appeared before the senate committee on commerce yesterday, to answer the charges made against him. Ex-Senator McDonald of Indiana, and E. W. Halford, the president's private secretary, appeared before the committee in behalf of Mr. New. At the conclusion of the hearing, the committee determined unanimously on a favorable report on the nomination of Mr. New, to be consul general at London.

Objecting to Morgan.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Strong protests are being received at the White House against the nomination of Judge Morgan, of Louisiana, to be minister of Mexico. The principal objections to the judge are on the ground of disability. He is over 80 years of age and is a martyr to rheumatism and dyspepsia, it is claimed. The judge was the United States representative to Mexico during President Arthur's administration

A Favorable Report.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The evidence from Arizona, depended upon by the originators of the charges against Lewis Wolfly, nominated to be governor of Arizona to sustain their allegations, has been received and laid before the committee on territories. The committee will report favorably on the nomination.

MEXICAN NEWS.

A Collection of Items Gathered from Greaserdom.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 26.—Saturday, in making repairs to the San Rosario chapel, which is part of the San Francisco convent, at Jalipa, the remains of three nuns, who had been walled up and left to perish, were found.

Heavy frosts have destroyed all the crops near San Martin, Texmulucan.

The Protectoria mine, state of Guanajuato, is producing $14,000 worth of silver a week.

Sunday in the capital, while asleep, Louisa Garcia was stabbed to death by her husband

An accident at the Todos Santos mine, state of Guanajuato, killed nine men and wounded eight others.

Recently, while on the march from Culiacan to Durango, four soldiers of the Fifth infantry, were frozen to death.

Edward Clyde Abbott, of Michigan, United States, recently died at the Belen hospital at Guanajuato, leaving no will.

Gen. Manuel Gonzales has a magnificent vineyard, with some 30,000 vines, known as Molino Chico, state of Pueblo. It is in a high state of cultivation.

They are trying to build a theatre at Guanajuato. They have been fourteen years at it, and part of the half finished structure is used as a stable for street car mules.

Recently in the capital, Don Anselmo Castillo died, and his wife, Dona Josafina Guzman de Castillo, went to her room, locked herself in, refused food or drink, and in a few days was also a corpse.

A curious case occurred recently at Leon. A lady was very sick with dropsy and a niece was sent for to come and be with her in her last hours. At the beside of the sick the niece was stricken by a cerebral attack and fell, cold and stiff as if dead. Her funeral was arranged and in the excitement the sick aunt arose and was about with the rest. As the priest was pronouncing the funeral discourse the niece suddenly came to, whereupon the aunt immediately took to her bed and in a couple of hours was a corpse.

Naval Commanders.

Several of Them Report to the Navy Department.

NO RIOTING IN PANAMA.

Many of the People Who Were Thrown Out of Work Have Already Left the Isthmus—Rear Admiral Chandler's Funeral—Further Particulars of the Chinese Riots.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Capt. Howell, of the Atlanta, under date of the 15th instant, from Aspinwall, informs the navy department that there is no longer any danger of rioting or insurrection on the isthmus. The destitute laborers are of smaller number than has been reported, and all are quietly taking advantage of the transportation offered by the government.

The 15th was the day set for the discontinuance of work, but there was absolutely no excitement among the poorer classes, nor apprehension of trouble by those in better circumstances. The English consul had shipped about two thousand destitute Jamaicans to their homes, all of whom left quietly. Only about seventy-five had been shipped by the United States consul, who considered that there was no longer likelihood of trouble.

The navy department has received full official dispatches from Capt. F. V. McNair, commanding flagship Omaha, and Commander N. M. Dyer, commanding the Marion, of the funeral ceremonies of the late Rear Admiral Chandler, and some further particulars as to his illness and death, which, however, have been generally anticipated by privated dispatches and communications. The forces in the funeral procession, besides the detachment of marines, numbered 1,420, namely, from the British fleet at Hong Kong, 800, and from the British garrison at that place 620.

On the 14th of February, Commander Dyer, accompanied by Lieut. Commander West and Lieut. Wadhams, called on his excellency, the Governor, Sir G. William Des Voeux, Vice Admiral Salmon, Gen. Cameron, Rear Admiral Maxwell and Cols. Craster and Robertson, and thanked them in person for the marked and spontaneous tribute of respect paid by those officers at the funeral of Admiral Chandler, assuring them that their considerate action was deeply appreciated by the American residents in the east, and highly esteemed by the government at Washington.

Capt. McNair, under date of the 20th of February from Shanghai, reports fully to the secretary of the navy the particulars of the riot at Chin Kiang. He transmits an account of the value of property destroyed, and photographs of the principal places damaged. His estimate of damage to property is 103,000. The property consisted of British, American and Chinese, the greater part British.

Leather Firm Assigns.

BOSTON, March 27.—E. Cummings & Company, leather dealers, have assigned. They owe about $300,000. It is thought they will pay a good dividend. They were carrying a large stock on a falling market.

Destroyed By Flames.

Chicago Visited by a Very Destructive Fire.

LOST A MILLION AND A HALF

A Warehouse Stored With Teas and Coffee Entirely Destroyed—Almost a Holocaust in Brooklyn—A Number of People Injured—Other Fire Losses.

CHICAGO, March 27.—The Grand Central ware house at Rush and North Water streets, this city, was burned to the ground yesterday morning and building and contents are a total loss, the aggregate of which is placed at $1,500,000.

A singular feature of the affair is that twice before, within a comparatively short time, the building has been on fire. Two weeks ago there was a slight blaze in the structure, which, though easily extinguished, was very suspicious in its circumstances. Alderman Manierre, owner of the building, said that he had no doubt but that the three fires were all of incendiary origin.

It was a government bonded ware house and 90 per cent of its contents were teas and coffees in bond for the import duty. Their ownership was widely distributed. Perhaps the heaviest losers are Fitch, Howland & Company, of this city, who had $250,000 worth of teas in the building. Other Chicago firms who had property in the building, but the amount of whose losses is unknown, are: C. B. Lathrop & Company, Hillyer & Company, Falker & Stern, Wineman, Conant & Company, W. F. Peel & Company, Robert Jeffrey & Company and the Union National bank.

Outside firms which lose by the fire are: Hyde & Southworth and E. S. Conant & Company, both of Boston; Siegfried & Browndenstein, of San Francisco, Eppers, Smith, Windman & Company, Carter, Hawley & Company, George W. Lane & Company and W. P. Roome & Company, all of New York city.

Almost a Holocaust in Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, March 27.—Fire destroyed the four-story brick factory building No. 298 Kent avenue yesterday afternoon, and led to the injury of a number of men and girls employed there. The first floor of the building was used as an axle factory by Frederick W. Wooster, and the second floor by Dillmier & Staalz as a brass foundry. On the third and fourth floors thirty-five men and twenty-five women and girls were employed by Alfred E. Owers, in the manufacture of shoes. The fire broke out in the lower part of the building and spread so rapidly that the only stairway leading to the third and fourth floors was in flames before the shoe factory employes could make their escape. They ran to the windows and jumped to the roof of an extension to the building about twenty feet below them. Nearly all of the girls and some of the men who jumped were more or less injured, and it is reported that two of the employes are missing

The following is a list of those whose injuries are serious:

Kate McLaughlin, thigh fractured and injured internally.

Ella McCaffrey, injured about the head.

Sarah Lambert, scalp wound

Edith Burr, injured internally

Nettie Robertson, sprained ankle.

Henrietta Wright, sprained ankle.

Dorothy Leary, sprained ankle.

Julia Longstreet, sprained ankle

Joseph Hannigan, spine injured.

Henry Dowd, broken leg.

J. Munsel, ribs broken.

Joseph Hart, sprained ankle.

Fred Abel, broken ankle.

The loss by the fire will probably reach $125,000.

A Flour Mill Burned.

LANCASTER, Pa., March 27.—The flour mill of Adam G. Groff, three miles south of this city, was burned at midnight. Loss $45,000, insurance $16,000. A covered bridge adjoining the mill was also consumed

Lithographic Establishment Damaged.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Fire in the eighth floor of the nine-story building Nos. 45 and 51 Rose street, occupied by the lithographic firm of Sackett & Wilhelms, caused a loss of $20,000.

Emperor William's Charity.

BALTIMORE, March 27.—Sister Benedicta, superioress of the new city hospital, has received through the mayor a check for $150, forwarded by order of Emperor William of Germany for the benefit of the institution. The gift is the result of a report made by Consul Heydenreich to the foreign office at Berlin at the request of the latter to name some institution in Baltimore where a donation from the emperor would be acceptable. The money will be used to furnish a room in the hospital which will be named in honor of the donor.

A Big Strike Probable.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 27.—Unless the boss carpenters of Buffalo accede to the demands of the carpenters and joiners by next Monday, there will be a general strike. The carpenters demand a reduction of hours of labor from ten to nine and an increase in pay from twenty to twenty-five cents per hour. The bosses are ready to comply with these demands on June 1, but the men insist upon the new schedule going into effect on April 1.

Consecration of Bishop Knight.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 27.—The consecration of Dr. Cyrus F. Knight, of Lancaster, Penn., recently chosen bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Milwaukee, occurred at All Saint's cathedral in this city yesterday. The ceremony was most elaborate and impressive, large delegations of clergymen from this end and Fond du Lac diocese being present.

Started Out to Fight.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 27.—After four hours' wrangling among the managers of the Needham-Gilmore fight, about the amount of purse for which the men were to fight, a compromise of $400 was agreed upon and at 12:30 the party started for a point on the Mississippi river several miles north of this city, where the fight will take place.

THE WARRING FACTIONS.

The Trouble Temporarily Stopped by the Death and Arrest of the Leaders.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 27.—A special from Pineville, Ky., to the Courier-Journal says: Hostilities have ceased, at least for a time, between the warring Turner and Sowders factions in the Yellow Creek neighborhood, and at present there are no indications of a renewal. No one has been killed for at least thirty-six hours, and interest in the feud is flagging.

At present Gen. Sowders is in jail at Stanford, under indictment for the assassination of Jack Turner two years ago, and even should he be released there are other charges which will doubtless be strong enough to hold him. In fact, the several murders in which he has been implicated in one way or another have still to be carried into court and if the officers of the law show a proper regard for their duty, Sowders will remain in confinement for some time.

The killing of James Burch unmanned another leader of the Sowders crowd, and, so far as that faction is concerned, the war is at an end, unless the Turners start it again.

Alvin Turner's death at the hands of Burch deprived the followers of that young Hotspur of their chief source of revenue, and the people of Bell county seem at present to think that as soon as the supply of ammunition now in the hands of the Turners has been burned, the end will have been reached.

Harvey Turner is still in jail at Tazwell, and so far as leaders are concerned, the Turners seem to be as badly off as the Sowders. Burch's body was removed to Yellow Creek for burial, but young Turner is still at the house of his aunt, Mrs. Catherine Harkes, whose first husband, Ben. King, and son, William King, were killed by Jack Turner, father of Alvin, fifteen years ago. His mother has been telegraphed for, but has not yet arrived.

The remainder of the Turners have temporarily subsided, but it is reported that a number of them are still in the neighborhood bearing arms and ready to resist any attempt that may be made to arrest them.

WHITE CAPS WORSTED.

A Virginia Farmer Armed with a Club Puts the Whole Gang to Flight.

ONANCOCK, Va., March 27.—Ever since the White Caps began terrorizing the inhabitants of Acomac county, they have ruled with an iron hand. It is said that while they often disciplined law-abiding citizens they much more frequently compelled the lazy and shiftless to work. In some sections there is not an idle man to be found. Had the Regulators confined their attentions to people of this class their work would not have been interfered with. But they did not. They insisted on notifying some prominent residents that were not doing right and must be punished.

Among others receiving such a communication was William E. Kellam, a strapping big farmer living near Locustville. He laughed at the threats, and said he would give any nocturnal visitor a warm reception. A night or two ago a band of about fifteen, their heads adorned with the regulation white covering, called at Kellam's house and announced that he must come forth and receive his lashing. Without a word in reply, the big farmer opened his door, and, with a good sized stick in his hand, announced that he was ready.

He looked so formidable that the White Caps hesitated, and, before they had made up their minds, Kellam, who looked the crowd over, strode up to the biggest man, and with one blow knocked him down. Then, in the presence of the party, he began walloping the prostrate White Cap until the latter begged for mercy. Instead of taking his part, the rest of the gang, after the second blow was struck, took to the woods and scrambled away as fast as their legs could carry them. Kellam finally allowed his victim to rise, but he was so badly beaten that he could hardly walk. The big farmer does not anticipate any further trouble.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Robert Garrett Did Not Go to Mexico, as Bandits Were Waiting for Him.

BALTIMORE, March 27.—A special from San Antonio, Tex., in The American explains why the Robert Garrett party is visiting Thomasville, Ga., instead of going to the City of Mexico, as was announced they would on leaving Ringwood, N. J. The special states that the change was due to the fact that the Garrett party was informed that an organized band of desperadoes, who had heard of the wealth of the Garretts, had determined to capture Mr. Garrett and party at the earliest opportunity after their arrival in Mexico and hold them for ransom.

The plan might have had succeeded, but one of the conspirators got drunk and gave the whole affair away. The Garretts have now decided not to visit Mexico, but after visiting a few more southern resorts to return to Baltimore. Mr. Garrett's health is reported as much improved.

At the Garrett banking house here the change of plans is attributed to a whim of the sick man.

COLLISION AT SEA.

One Vessel Sunk and Thirty of Her Crew and Passengers Drowned.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A dispatch from Manila, the principal town of the Philippine Islands, says:

The Spanish steamer Visayas has arrived in a badly damaged condition and reports having collided with the Spanish mail steamer Mindanio. The latter sunk immediately and thirty of the crew and passengers were drowned. The vessels were engaged in local trade.

ACCIDENT IN A FOUNDRY.

Four Men Frightfully Burned By Molten Metal—Two Will Die.

PITTSBURG, March 27.—A frightful accident occurred at 10 o'clock Monday night in Shoenberger's mill, on Sixteenth street. Martin Cockrane, Charles Stoff, William Kane and August Myers, were filling a large mold with molten metal, when a sudden jar caused the metal to spill and splash upon the men. Cochrane was burned so severely that he will probably die. Kane was fatally burned. He is a single man. Myers and Stoff were less seriously injured.

The Uncrowned King.

Great Preparations for the Parnell Banquet.

THE HALL IS TOO SMALL.

None in London That Can Be Procured Large Enough to Accommodate the Number Who Wish to Attend the Festivities—Various Other Foreign News.

LONDON, March 27.—So many admirers of Mr. Parnell have signified their desire to attend the banquet to be given the "uncrowned king" on the 11th of next month by the National-Liberal club that the managers of the affair are now seeking a place large enough to accommodate the throng that is expected. The banquet will be made a most signal attempt to honor Mr. Parnell, and at the same time to strike a political blow by showing the country the strength of the feeling entertained for the Irish leader.

The projectors of the banquet are trying to obtain a theatre for the 11th, as no hall that is available is sufficiently large for their purpose. An application to the managers of the Covent Garden resulted in a refusal, but no fear is felt of ultimate success in the search for a roomy banqueting place.

The Daily news understands that the Parnell banquet has been abandoned owing to the inability of the committee to secure a suitably large meeting place in a central location.

A Priest's Warning.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 27.—On the one occasion of the czar's last visit to the fortress cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, on the anniversary of his father's death, a strange scene occurred. The officiating priest who presented the crucifix for the homage of his sovereign, said to the czar: "Your majesty's greatest enemies are of your own household. Beware of Minister Vorontzow, minister of the imperial household, and M. Pobiedonoszow, procurator general of the holy synod.' The czar ordered an immediate inquiry into the priest's condition, and he was pronounced insane and confined in an asylum. His friends, however, assert that he is sane.

The Two Secretaries Quarrelling.

LONDON, March 27.—A serious quarrel has lately arisen between Irish Secretary Balfour and Home Secretary Matthews, presumably over the glaring contrasts between the statements of the two ministers in the house of commons in answer to the question of the Liberals regarding Pigott and others. As Lord Salisbury can ill afford at present to have internal dissensions in his political family, and as Mr. Balfour, in the existing condition of things, is the more valuable of the two, Mr. Matthews will shortly be transferred to some lucrative office or possibly given a peerage.

A Brief from the Pope.

ROME, March 27.—According to the desire of the Canadian episcopacy, the pope has issued a brief designating the manner in which the property to be restored to the Jesuits in the Dominion is to be divided, namely, $160,000 to the Jesuits, $100,000 to Catholic bishops, and $140,000 to the Montreal university.

Preparing for War.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 27.—The arrangements for transporting the army to any quarter of the country in the event of war, have been completed. The entire country has been divided into specified districts, with officers designated to control the military movements in each district.

Great Flood Damages Done.

VIENNA, March 27.—The rivers in Hungary and Galicia are rapidly rising and great damage is threatened. The town of Tzegedin is already under water, and it is feared that the previous disastrous experience of this unfortunate place will be repeated.

A Small Battle.

LONDON, March 27.—A serious collision has occurred at Bonn, between the soldiers and civilians, in which many persons were injured. One of the citizens now lies at Bonn hospital in a critical condition resulting from a dangerous bayonet wound.

To Suppress the Slave Trade.

LONDON, March 27.—In the house of commons a resolution was adopted that the government should ascertain whether the European powers were willing to meet in a conference to discuss measures for the suppression of the slave trade.

Emperor William to Visit London.

LONDON, March 27.—It is announced that the visit of the Emperor William to London, will be of the same nature as the recent visit of Queen Victoria to Berlin. A grand ceremonial display is expected.

Cable Cullings.

Mr. Theodore Steinway, of the firm of Steinway & Sons, piano makers of New York, died yesterday at Brunswick.

The vacant offices of ministry of commerce and justice will, it is thought, be filled by Herren Szaparay and Szilagyi respectively.

It is reported that Gen. Boulanger is suffering from the opening of an old wound and has been compelled to resort to the use of morphine.

Count Herbert Bismarck dined with Lord Salisbury last night. The Marquis of Hartington was present, and the three conversed until midnight.

A papal rescript will shortly be issued conferring upon the Washington Catholic university a monopoly of superior education for the catholic clergy of America.

The Austrian government denies Bulgaria's right to send official representatives to Austria. Bulgaria may send private agents to guard her interests, but no official diplomats.

The queen regent, Christina, has arrived at San Sebastian, with Prime Minister Sagasta and other notables, to meet Queen Victoria. The city is gaily decorated in honor of the event.

Speeches were made by ex-Governor Hartranft, Col. Kauffman, Mayor Coruman and others.

Making a Test Case.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 27.—Judge Howland to-day granted to Trustee-elect Carson a writ of mandate against the governor to compel the latter to issue Carson a commission as member of the new board of trustees of the insane hospital. By agreement the writ was not ordered and the case was at once appealed to the supreme court. The legislature selected the trustees and the governor refused to issue commissions, claiming that the legislature had no power to name the men who should fill those offices. It has been the custom for many years for the legislature to select the trustees of the state benevolent institutions, and Governor Hovey is the first executive to question the constitutionality of such action.

Shoplifters Arrested.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Two ladies were arrested yesterday in McCreery's dry goods store, charged with shoplifting. Various articles were found secreted on their persons. They confessed their guilt, and were greatly agitated by their disgrace. The police were surprised when they learned that the persons were hitherto respectable married women, one being the wife of an artist, and the other of an employ in the postoffice. They will appear in court to-morrow to answer to the charge

No Change in the Weavers' Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 27.—There is no change in the strike situation. The strikers say they can hold out a long while if they continue to receive the aid now being tendered from outside. Rev. John Brown and others will address the strikers' mass meeting to-day.

Will Be Tried for Murder.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 27.—Thomas Rivers and his wife, of Cheshire, will be tried on May 14, on the charge of murdering their child while taking it on foot from Cheshire to Adams some months ago. The body was found buried at the foot of a tree.

Suddenly Disappeared.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 27.—The police force organized under the recent law has vanished by reason of the adverse decision yesterday, and nearly all of the men have surrendered their badges to Superintendent Travis and asked to be taken back upon the force. Superintendent Colbert and Capt. Quigley are the only ones who are standing by the commissioners.

Oleomargerine Seized.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 27.—Internal Revenue Collector Troup seized 11,000 pounds of oleomargerine at the factory of N. J. Nathan & Company, of this city. The seizure was made by order of the Washington authorities and neither the collector nor the firm understood the nature of the charges.

Improvement of American Textile Fabrics.

PATERSON, N. J., March 27. A movement is on foot here, backed by the principal manufacturers of America, for the purpose of founding technical schools for the improvement of the manufacture of American goods. Its principal object, it is said, is to render home operators independent of European designers, and to emancipate the trade from the alleged despotism of [illegible] unions.

THE SCHOOL BOARD AND POLITICS

Unable to restrain themselves any longer, the dislike of the Democratic partisans broke loose Tuesday night, and they showed their hatred for the business-like, non-partisan management of the school board. The Kickers, those who have axes to grind and those who are Democrats in the hope of Democratic reward combined in the city Democratic convention and nominated two candidates for Members of the Board of Education, instead of nominating one candidate to go on the ticket with the Republican nominee. This is a direct stab at the continuance of a non-partisan board, a move tending to thrust the School Board under the control of Democratic partisans who would make the efficacy of the schools secondary to the distribution of a little political pap.

Let us consider the alleged reasons. It is asserted that the so-called non-partisan board is not non-partisan but Republican, that only Republicans are awarded places in the schools. This assertion is actually made though it is the same as proclaiming Wm. Fies, Soloman Oppenheimer and Dr. McMurray figure heads who do nothing but dance to the orders of Dr. Thomas, J. J. Hane and C. F. Garberson. But it is not true. Outside one member of the Board politics is never mentioned and that member is Dr McMurray. The Doctor raised the howl over Miss Mapes' recent election when he was the only member who opposed her. He showed very marked devotion to a home applicant, seemingly forgetting that last fall he himself presented an applicant from Defiance, a relative, for a Grammar school position and, out of compliment to him, his foreign relative was elected.

But these injured Democratic partisans say there is unfairness in all selections, and the great majority of positions go to Republicans. Let us see. The efficient Superintendent is Republican, but he was reelected because of his marked ability without his politics being polled. Of the four janitors two are Democrats and two Republicans; the clerk of the board is a Republican, and of the twenty one teachers nearly one half are from Democratic families. Let us assume a different situation, however. For sake of argument we will say that all the ladies are Republicans—who would be so small as to question their positions on politics? Wouldn't a director be in despicable business to catechise a worthy young lady as to her father's political preferment? Wouldn't he feel himself approaching nothingness to vote for or against a lady applicant because she was of Democratic or Republican family? It is a fact, however, that can be substantiated, that of the last seven teachers elected five were of Democratic families. But we need not particularize. The question is before the people whether or not the School Board is to be made partisan, whether the best managed public board in Marion is to be torn from its high plane of action and lowered to the level of political trickery. The management of the Public Schools of this city has been the pride of every good citizen, and the fault-finding has been so little and from such unworthy sources that it has been without notice, and we do not believe that thoughtful voters will aid to make it a partisan board at the cry of a few sore heads and painfully practical politicians.

Solomon Oppenheimer and Wm. Fies are as pronounced Democrats, and as worthy, too, as there are in Marion and they do the Republican members of the Board the fairness to say that they attempt taking no advantage, that but one man attempts to bring politics into the meetings. This assurance from two reputable Democrats is unimpeachable testimony that an army of growlers can not contradict. An evenly divided board can not be partisan unless a member from one party or the other proves treacherous and the Democrats who assume that the Board is managed in Republican interests do no less than accuse some Democrat of that treachery. The facts do not indicate that, however.

We hope the Republicans will nominate one member and indorse one Democratic nominee and place the two before the people as a non-partisan ticket.

This proposition forces us to favor either Mr. Young or Dr. McMurray, and we suggest an endorsement of Mr. Young, because the Doctor has ever been persistent in being partisan, indeed has been the disturbing political member of the Board. We do this out of no personal opposition, but sincere in the belief that the disturbing member should be defeated and the Board left equally divided, to conduct the public schools without favoritism, without belittling partisanship. A capable school management unbiased by politics or religious creed is a blessing to Marion and the thinking citizens will vote to continue it.

THE STAR has no enmity against Dr. McMurray, indeed the Doctor has been our valued friend in the Council and was a pleasing neighbor when our offices were in the same block, but we feel it a duty to severely criticise his School Board policy and do so without hesitancy. The fact is the Doctor appears to be the only disturbing partisan in the Board and the situation demands that he be ousted. Politics must be kept out of the schools along with sectarianism.

THE CHOCOLATE DRILL

The Affair a Success as an Entertainment and Financially.

The young ladies of the Presbyterian Church could not have hoped for a finer audience than was attracted to Music Hall by the chocolate drill and little old folks' concert on Tuesday night. All space in the hall, excepting the space reserved for the drill, was crowded, and many were kept standing throughout the evening.

The rise of the curtain was followed by the opening number of the little old folks' concert, and the stage was occupied by a collection of thirty little ladies and gentlemen, ranging in age from three to nine years, were attired in old folks' costumes, many of the little ladies wearing their dresses en train, and looking charming with their waving fans and queenly manners, and the boys were quite stunning in the costumes that made them men. They rendered a couple pleasing choruses under the direction of Mrs. McNeal and then seated themselves to appear again after the chocolate drill.

The drill consisted of pleasing evolutions performed by twenty-four young ladies of the ages of from twelve to fourteen years, attired in waiting maids' costumes bearing trays and chocolate cups, under the direction of Mrs. Dr. Thomas. Among other figures, they spelled out chocolate, letter by letter, and all in all their performances proved highly entertaining, as was evinced by the frequent and hearty applause.

The little old folks followed the drill with a couple songs and then gave their grand march, the cutest feature of the evening.

That closed the entertainment, and the crowd was permitted to participate in sipping delicious chocolate and enjoying tempting morsels of cake that were served.

The net proceeds of the entertainment amounted to about $90, so the ladies in charge have reason to congratulate themselves for the success financially as well as in entertainment.

Waldo.

The spelling match at the Drake school house Wednesday evening of last week was a success. Henry Angenstein was the champion in the first match and Mary Angenstein in the second. There were several teachers present, and Wes Miller, our Township Clerk, Dick Hipple and Harry Corbin were there. The best of order prevailed and all were well pleased.

Elmer Selanders is visiting the different schools in the township this week.

J. J. Bland is selling his corn.

We are glad to see that the STAR is a welcome visitor in several families here, and that prospects are good for more subscribers soon.

C. D. Jones arrived here from Illinois on Thursday night.

Farmers are busy husking corn and plowing for oats and corn.

Rev. Turner closed his meetings Sunday evening.

Miss Dillie Straub attended school examination at Marion last Saturday.

Mr. Branson, of Marion, is moving on the J. D. Bishop farm, just south of this place.

Charly Dillany had a sale last Friday. He will move to Norton.

Men and boys have a good time pitching horse shoes here. Banker and Lafayette are the champions.

Banker Selanders has commenced a three months' term of school in the Hoke district.

March 26. STACY M.

Frank Mayo.

The Buffalo Express of Tuesday, Oct. 16, 1888, has the following to say of Frank Mayo and his play, "The Royal Guard:" "Would that there were more actors like Frank Mayo! Graceful, handsome, well-poised, supple, strong and elastic, he makes a superb hero for a romantic drama, and, having the good sense to play what he is best fitted for, makes a success unequivocal and unitable in its way. His D'Artagnan never palls. It stirs the blood and moves men to sympathy and women to admiration just the same now as it did one year or two years ago, or as it will five or ten years hence, should the actor live and care to play it then. 'The Royal Guard' is a smoother, more coherent and compact play than it was when first produced here, and, if possible, Mayo's personation gains in unctuous humor, and is lively suggestiveness from season to season. The daring impetuosity, the cool nonchalance, the responsiveness of the character are as admirable as ever."

W. L. Clement Assigns.

W. L. Clement, successor to Clement Bros., the west Center street merchant tailor and gents' furnisher, made an assignment Tuesday afternoon to Ira Uhler. The assignee furnished bond to the extent of $12,000, a fact that indicates the estimate of assets to be about $6000, and liabilities are believed to be in the neighborhood of $5000.

The cause of the failure is attributed to dull business and inability to convert assets into ready cash to meet urgent demands of creditors. The failure is generally lamented among the many friends of Mr. Clement.

Fourth Extraordinary Announcement.

To the Public: For the fourth time in the history of Music Hall we desire to call special attention to a Star engagement for our amusement loving public. We take pleasure in announcing for Friday evening, March 29th, the appearance of the famous actor, Frank Mayo, in the character of the Adventurer in The Royal Guard. This will be the greatest attraction that has ever been presented at Music Hall. Reserve seats at once at Tristram & Young's.

THE MUSIC HALL ASSOCIATION.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS

The Township and City Ticket Chosen—Two Candidates for the School Board.

The Democratic township convention was held Tuesday afternoon at the City Hall and resulted in the nomination of the following ticket:

For Trustee—long term—Frank R. Saiter.

For Trustee—short term—W. D. Whipps.

For Treasurer—John Battenfield.

For Justice of the Peace—J. L. Bell.

For Assessor—Martin Uncapher.

For Constable—Peter Gross.

The corporation convention was held at City Hall, Tuesday evening, and J. J. Hopkins called to the chair. Geo. B. Scofield made a motion to nominate two candidates for members of School Board, and after some discussion the motion prevailed by a vote of about five to one of the delegates present. Dr. McMurray and Hon. B. G. Young were nominated.

Brother Against Brother.

Concerning the Leonzo Bros. who appear at Music Hall Thursday night, the Erie, Pa., Daily Times says: "To have seen the crowds of people wending their way to the above place last evening was proof undeniable of the great hit Leonzo Bros. and their artistic company have secured in this city. When the curtain arose on the first act of 'Brother Against Brother' there was not a single vacant seat in the house, while many elegantly attired ladies could be seen standing in the aisles and lobbies. Without exaggeration, fully two or three hundred people were turned away. 'Brother Against Brother' is indeed a play calculated to please the most critical. The acting, costumes and scenic effects were in keeping with the play. Every point was appreciated and applauded from rise to fall of curtain and the orchestra came in for a liberal share of encores."

Injunction Served.

C. F. Garberson secured an injunction in the Tiffin Common Pleas Court on Tuesday, enjoining the Commissioners of Marion county from going any further with the Goose Creek improvement. The order was served on the Commissioners today, and the improvement will now be at a standstill until the case is fought through the courts. Steps will be taken at once to dissolve the injunction, but the hostility to the improvement is so bitter that the case will not end short of the Supreme Court.

A Round of Entertainment.

Wednesday evening—Grand Musical Soiree—Prof. Davis and the Orchestral Club, at Music Hall.

Thursday evening—Leonzo Bros., in Brother against Brother.

Friday evening—Frank Mayo as D'Artagnan, the adventurer, in The Royal Guard.

Card of Thanks.

We desire in this manner to thank our neighbors and friends for their kind attention and aid, shown during the illness, death and burial of our infant son.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK COLLIS.

Coincidence in Children's Deaths.

PARIS, Ky., March 27.—A strange coincidence took place in the Ruddles Mills precinct. As Mr. Lafayette Endicott was going over to his brother's house to report the sad news of the death of his child he met his brother on the same sad mission. The children were 18 months old, and were born on the same day.

Died Without Any One Knowing It.

ELLICOTTVILLE, N. Y., March 27.—Mrs. Thomas Broderick, of Devereaux, awoke this morning to find her husband lying by her side dead. He had retired in apparently good health and had not complained of not feeling well. He had apparently died without a struggle.

Mrs. Stowe's Health.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 27.—A member of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's family denies authoritatively the rumor that Mrs. Stowe is rapidly failing in health. She is reported as being as well as at any time during the past twelve months.

Assistant Pastor at Plymouth Church.

BROOKLYN, March 27.—Howard N. Ellis, a graduate of the Union Theological seminary, has been chosen assistant pastor of Plymouth church. He is 28 years old, and is at present completing a course in Germany.

Fourteen Years for Manslaughter.

MONTREAL, March 27.—Luther Thomas Grath, convicted of manslaughter of William Holden, has been sentenced to fourteen years imprisonment.

A Tedious Wait.

Sojourner (at country tavern)—Madame, I am in great haste and very hungry. Can you get me up a couple of fried eggs?

Landlady—Yes, sir.

Sojourner (after long waiting)—It's some time since I ordered those eggs, madame.

Landlady—Drat them hens! Jeff, go out to the barn and stir 'em up.—Harper's Bazar.

Why Women Fade.

Women lose their beauty because colds undermine their life. Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption is an absolute cure for colds.

H. C. HOBBERMAN & Co.

Unless you know that a man is an habitual liar you have no right to call him a liar of any sort. This is a decision handed down by an Ohio court. A man who lies a few times is no more a liar than the man who drinks now and then is a drunkard.

—Dr. B. Mincer, the eminent optician of Detroit, Mich., who is now a resident of Marion, will visit every town in this county. Any one suffering with weak eyes, or eyes abused by inferior glasses, should not fail to see him. Orders left at the postoffice will be promptly attended to. No extra charge for examination or visiting patients at their home. On Saturdays and Sundays he can be found in his office at residence, No. 25, Silver street. 164aly.

The enterprising country correspondent is asserting with considerable confidence that "Farmers are busy," and the "roads are muddy." Everything has its place, but here is two items that do not belong to a journal that is a disseminator of the news.

Do Not Suffer Any Longer.

Knowing that a cough can be checked in a day, and the first stages of consumption broken in a week, we hereby guarantee Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, and will refund the money to all who buy, take it as per directions, and do not find our statement correct.

The emperor of Germany has sent to the emperor of Morocco fifteen fine horses in acknowledgment of presents recently sent from Morocco to Berlin.

The richest three men in Germany are Herr Krupp, the cannon maker; Baron von Rothschild, of Frankfort, and Herr von Bleischucher, the blind banker, of Berlin.

M. Renan has contempt for popular government. "To unchained, universal suffrage," he says, "I prefer the most dissolute court and the most mediocre monarch."

Justin H. McCarthy, M. P., who is about to publish a novel with the terse title of "Polly," expects to make over $10,000 by the sale of the book to American and Australian syndicates.

The poet Tennyson is said to be keeping wonderfully well. He is too energetic to be idle, and he reads his daily paper and preserves full freshness of interest in the events of his time.

Cardinal Mazella, who has just been made prefect of the Congregation of the Index, is the only American who has ever occupied that exalted position. The cardinal comes from Woodstock, Md.

Col. W. H. H. Taylor, of St. Paul, Minn., the state librarian, is President Harrison's uncle. He is 75 years old, and knows his work so well that he carries the whole library catalogue in his head.

The Rev. Dr. McKenzie in The Congregationalist calls attention to the pressing need of a building at Harvard especially devoted to religious uses. In this matter Harvard is behind Yale, Cornell and Princeton.

The Madrid physician who made the post-mortem examination of the body of Pigott declares that he never saw such a well formed skull and brain, the latter indicating a man of superior force of character and imagination.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes complains of the persecutions inflicted upon him by volunteer correspondents. Twenty to twenty-five letters in his morning's mail is considered a light delivery, and nearly all are upon subjects of interest to the writers alone.

Ex-Congressman Walter A. Wood has one of the handsomest turnouts in Washington. The wheels of his barouche are bright red, the sorrel horses are covered by gold mounted harness and their driver is gorgeous in light livery with gold buttons.

A silver pipe, on which is the inscription: "Presented by Maj. Gen. Harrison, U. S. A., on behalf of the United States, to the Shawanese tribe of Indians, 1814," has been presented to President Harrison by a gentleman who secured the relic in the Indian territory.

Carl Rosa is a small man, with abundant fair hair thrown back from the forehead, a slight but alert figure and bright, restless eyes. He is a kindly man, generally liked by his artists, though in business matters he has the reputation of being very strict. He dabbles in pictures and politics.

Mrs. Cleveland's cards now read: "Mrs. Grover Cleveland." Official etiquette requires that the wife of the chief magistrate shall have her cards engraved in the simplest manner—"Mrs. Cleveland," or "Mrs. Harrison," as the case may be. The president's card bears only the inscription, "The President."

Sir Joseph Bazalgette, who has just retired from the service of the Metropolitan (London) board of works, was that board's engineer since its organization. He built the Thames embankment, 100 miles of new sewers, besides 250 miles of old ones enlarged; four or five Thames bridges, and about 3,000 new streets.

SCIENTIFIC SQUIBS.

The story that the microbe of diphtheria had been discovered by French scientists was a Paris newspaper canard.

M. Fouque, a French metallurgist, claims to have rediscovered the art of making the famous Pompeii blue. His process is based on a mixture of silicate, copper and chalk, and he says that he can produce any quantity of it at a moderate cost.

The use of corrugated iron for dwelling houses is now recommended, it being urged that they would be much cheaper than houses of brick or stone. Being lined with wood, they would necessarily be warm in winter, and to have them cool in summer, the plan of the well known Indian bungalow is suggested.

The electrical apparatus by which doomed criminals will be put to death in New York consists of a chair, probably of iron. The current will be sent from arm to arm of the subject, or from the head to the spine. The exact location of the poles will, no doubt, vary with the subject and the opinion of physicians.

A tropical plant called "peuca" or "maguey" has been discovered which is said to be a sure cure for hydrophobia. In Ayacucho, Peru, a man was bitten by a mad dog, and in his madness rushed into a swamp where the "peuca" grew, broke off the stems and drank the milky sap. He was taken home and has since recovered.

A process of engraving on glass and crystal by electricity has been communicated to the French Academy of Sciences by M. Plante. The plate to be engraved is covered with a concentrated solution of nitrate of potash, and put in connection with one of the poles in the battery, and the design is traced out with a fine platinum point connected to the other pole. The results are said to be of marvelous delicacy.

How sponges bore into limestone or shells is as yet an unsolved problem. Mr. Nasonoff has investigated a new species of cliona which tunnels oyster and mussel shells, and he believes that the boring of the canals and galleries is performed solely by the soft parts of the sponge. The penetration of the prolongation of the body of the sponge into the shell appears to be accomplished by the secretion of a corroding liquid, probably an acid.

The latest use of photography is to make a cannon ball take a picture of its own wabblings. An arrangement something like a camera is placed in the forward end of the projectile, and when it is fired directly at the sun the light traces lines upon the sensitive plate, from the direction of which it can be told whether the projectile has kept in one position or has wavered to and fro during its flight. The scheme is largely theoretical as yet.

WOMAN'S WEAR.

Classic outlines prevail.

Corsages are fancifully draped.

House and dinner dresses are demi-trained.

White toilets will have a "run" as usual this season.

Pale raspberry, aurore, old rose, water green and terra cotta are pet colors.

Stately Connemara cloaks of cloth will be worn for traveling and upon chilly days at seaside or country resorts.

The princesse dress, so well liked by ladies of full figure, comes back in all its old time grace with added beauties.

Some pretty gowns in redingote fashion have the under dress and over drapery falling in a graduated demi-train to the floor.

Most cotton dresses will have full sleeves, unless the wearer's arms be very large, in which case easy fitting coat sleeves are preferred.

Pompadour brocade, with background in lovely rose and gold tints called "dawn," makes beautiful toilets for bridesmaids wear.

Handsome spring toilets are made of printed tissues. Flowered bengaline and eolienne, sprinkled with large bouquets, are favorite patterns.

Some lovely French ginghams on display have basket stripes, broad and narrow stripes, crochet stripes, and are in all the daintiest combinations of color.

The hems of double cashmere gowns are trimmed with leather, either of a beige hue (untanned) and embroidered with metal threads, or black morocco against a deep red ground.

Broad brimmed and low crowned hats are wreathed round with feathers. The newest model—the Romeo—inclines slightly upward at the side and is ornamented by a bow of velvet ribbon.

Graduating gowns of white nainsook and embroidery have empire belted waist with insertion in the sleeves and down the front, and a full, gathered skirt of five breadths with insertion in rows at the foot above the hem.

The list of summer dresses is lengthened by the addition of washing silks and washing Scotch flannels made up with plaited skirts and spencer waists. Flannels showing mixtures of wool and cotton make useful tennis gowns and boating dresses.

Long, princesse shaped dresses are very slightly draped at one side; and separate panels of plain Chamberg are placed in the sides and back of directoire redingotes to be worn above embroidered skirts of the same fabric or of white embroidered muslin.

Some exquisite demi-season capotes are shown. One in particular is of gold net with trou-trou insertions, threaded with narrow comete ribbons of flax blue. Wider ribbon of the same shade is used for the bow and strings, a wreath of mignonette outlines the brim, a dainty cluster of white wild roses trims the front, and the soft crown is plaited in Beguin shape.—Cloak and Suit Review.

CURIOUS THINGS OF LIFE.

English fakirs paint sparrows yellow and sell them for canaries.

Rila Kittredge has written one of ex-President Cleveland's messages, containing 15,000 words, on a postal card.

A salmon caught on the Pacific coast had an iron spike seven inches long, with a half inch head, in its stomach.

An oyster recently dredged up in English waters measured 7 inches in length, the same in breadth, and 20½ inches around the outside edge, and weighed three and a half pounds.

While the church members of San Jose, Cal., were raising $5,000 as an inducement for a certain revivalist to start a revival in the town, a poor, hard working man died of starvation.

A lady who lives near Lagrange, Ga., ordered her servant girl to fire up the stove preparatory to baking some potatoes. She did as she was directed, but when the stove door was opened the house cat was found baked to a turn.

Arthur Cronk, a Gloucester fisherman, recently found in the stomach of a codfish which he caught on the Grand Banks a Victoria jubilee medal. The small Maltese cross with a photograph of Queen Victoria in the center, and even the ribbon attached, were but slightly harmed.

Dr. Rawlins, of Sandersville, Ga., was called to visit an aged colored man. An old woman who was waiting upon the man proved to be his mother. When the doctor asked the woman, who was 85, how she was feeling, she replied: "I'm purty well, but my mother is getting rather feeble now."

One of the questions put to the school children of Cambridge, Mass., the other day was: "What is a skeleton?" Among the answers were these: "When anybody dies the flesh dries up to the bones and makes a skeleton;" "A skeleton is bones in the museum;" "When you die the doctor can make a skeleton of you;" "When you grow into a skeleton you are sent to Harvard college to practice on."

A German barber known as "Phil," employed at Long Island City, dreamed that a blue dragon with green eyes and red tail was about to devour him. He sprang to escape the monster and a crash of glass awoke him. He found himself standing at the window with his head through the glass and blood pouring from a ragged wound in his throat. A neighbor rescued him and a doctor sewed up the wound.

A Paris gentleman engaged a cafe concert company to entertain his guests at a recent reception, and before the evening was over a handsome baritone of 30 won the heart of the young lady of the house and eloped with her while the company was at dinner. She wore only a mackintosh over evening dress, and had no money, while he owes his landlady two weeks' rent and is in debt to all the neighborhood, but neither of them has yet been heard from.

SOME DOG STORIES.

The ultra fashionable pet of the hour is the bulldog, the regular heavy bull, not the slick terrier.

One of the most patriarchal of St. Bernards is owned by Mr. Tobin, of the Philadelphia riding school. He is grandsire of a great progeny.

A strange dog got into the yard of an Athens, Ga., man, and would not let him enter. He was obliged to seek the assistance of the police.

The points of a good pug are the coat of a warm fawn color, a dark streak along the back, a wide chest, the tail double twisted like a pretzel, three folds of loose skin set like a collar around the throat, the muzzle square, the nose small, goggle eyes and the face soot black.

Boston boasts of a dog, the member of a family where fish is always eaten on Fridays, that for some time past disappeared on Thursday evening and was not seen again until Saturday morning. Investigation showed that the intelligent but heretical brute spent Friday with a family where meat was eaten on that day.

THE BACHELOR'S EGGS.

He Tried to Get Them Boiled Soft, but They Came Out Stone Hard.

A Scranton bachelor, who boards at one of the hotels and rooms outside, got so tired of eating stale eggs a while ago that he thought he would see if he couldn't change the programme a little. So he bought three dozen new laid eggs and took them to his lodgings, and when he went to tea that night he carried a couple of the eggs in his pocket and told the pleasant faced waiter girl to have them boiled soft. They came back as hard as rocks, and the bachelor boarder declared that no one in that kitchen knew enough to boil an egg. The handsome waiter girl said she was sorry that the cook hadn't done as she had ordered her to, and she volunteered to have two other eggs boiled soft, but the boarder told her she needn't. The next morning he took two more eggs over to the hotel and gave special directions as to how they should be boiled, and he had to swear when he opened them, for they were as hard as baseballs.

At supper that night he took three eggs, got another girl to take his orders, and gave the same directions. Result: Three eggs as unyielding as bullets. The bachelor said he guessed it was time for him to change his boarding place, and he uttered other unpleasant remarks regarding the interior management of the culinary department of the house. But he was on hand the next morning, and he had three nice large fresh eggs in his pocket. Calling his favorite waiter girl, he said:

"Now, I want you to open these eggs, drop them in hot water and poach them very soft, and, my dear, I want you to stand by them and see that they are cooked right."

She said she would and away she went, but in a minute or so she returned looking sad, and with the three eggs in six halves on a dish.

"I am sorry, sir," she said, and her light soprano voice trembled, "but these eggs were already boiled as hard as they could be when I broke them," and she placed them on the table in front of the irate bachelor.

He smelled a rat right away, and he left the table at once and started out to verify his suspicions. His investigations were finished by the middle of the forenoon, and what he found out was this: A married friend of his, who lived in the house where the bachelor had his lodgings, is a practical joker of the first order. He had taken all of the eggs to his kitchen, boiled them as hard as he could, and then placed them back in the bachelor's basket.

"It's all right," said the bachelor to another friend, "but I'll lay for him with a trick that'll make him hate himself like Satan for a year and a half."—New York Sun.

"Yes, but I forgot."

"That's no excuse. If you can't attend to business you must go."

"What is the trouble?" queried a reporter of the boss.

"He didn't brush the man's head."

"But his head was as bald as a bone."

"Certainly, and that's why he should have brushed it. Bald headed men are very sensitive, you must use the brush the same as if they had plenty of hair. To do so gives them an idea that you don't take particular notice of their baldness."

"And won't that man return?"

"Never. He'll try some other shop next time, and will even advise his friends to keep away from here."—Detroit Free Press.

President's Proclamation.

SPECIAL.

Whereas, From day to day ? numbers are being ? ken down with the fell disease Rheumatism, which seems to be greatly on the increase.

And whereas, The nation has within a short time been called upon to mourn the sudden loss of many of our public men, such as Vice-President Hendricks, Gen. John A. Logan, Sec'y Daniel P. Manning, Gen. McClellan, and many others.

Now therefore, I do by virtue of the knowledge possessed by me, proclaim and recommend Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup to be a remedy of great merit, both for Rheumatism and all Blood Diseases,

And further, That this medicine be adopted as a national remedy by all.

Signed by the President.

RHEUMATISM.

I was cut in the wrist by a broken bottle, from which I suffered extreme pain. I called a doctor, who pronounced it sciatic rheumatism. My right side became paralyzed, leg and arm badly withered, and my joints were so stiff that there was but little action in them. About six weeks ago I began taking Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup with marvelous results. Since then I have left off the use of crutches entirely, and only use a cane, and for the past few days I often forget it and walk without any aid. To say that it has greatly benefited me but poorly expresses my idea of your Rheumatic Syrup.

C. D. DENIO,

C. D. DENIO is a man well known in this community, and was probably the worst wreck physically of any man this country ever saw. He was paralyzed from rheumatic poison, and no one ever expected he would recover. He is well, and it is simply marvelous.
FRANK L. SMITH,
Ex-Member State Legislature, Jackson, Mich.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

My daughter Maud had inflammatory rheumatism. Her limbs were badly swollen. She was in terrible agony. She has been taking Rheumatic Syrup and using your Plasters, which has broken it up. The Syrup corrected her indigestion, cleansed the rheumatic poison from her blood, and she is now able to be around the house. We consider Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and Plasters remedies of great merit.
REV. J. ROBERTS,
Pastor First M. E. Church, Fremont, Mich.

Last winter and spring I was a terrible sufferer from rheumatism in my left shoulder and arm, suffering the most excruciating pain. Two bottles of Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup cured me. I can with confidence recommend it to all who are suffering with rheumatic difficulty.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

HE IS THE SECOND RICHEST MAN IN AMERICA.

In the Days When He Was a Bookkeeper in a Commission House—His Dividends Now Amount to $500,000 a Month—His Charity.

[Special Correspondence.]

CLEVELAND, March 25.—There is an American whose income is so large that he prays nightly for wisdom so that he can spend it to the glory of God and the benefit of mankind. And yet this modern Crœsus was simply a bookkeeper with a small salary in a small commission house less than a quarter of a century ago. The history of John D Rockefeller when it comes to dollars and cents is, perhaps, the most marvelous tale in the world of commerce. Beginning with a little oil refinery on the side of a hill in the city of Cleveland, but a span since, he has by virtue of his genius for business become the most powerful factor in petroleum in the United States, if not in all the earth. With no more than $2,000 twenty years ago he has built a fortune of at least $100,000,000. His dividends amount to $500,000 a month, or $16,666 66 every day. Being a man of simple tastes and small personal expenditure, he is called upon to do considerable thinking to properly invest the gold that flows night and day, year in and year out, into his bursting treasury. He holds, to use a judicial expression, that so long as a man is in health it his duty to accumulate property. No matter if he has more money than he knows what to do with, he should remain in business and get as much more as his capacity and opportunities will permit. But he should spend it wisely and for the benefit of those who are in need of it. He should build churches, educate young men for the ministry and rear colleges. Moreover, he should be a friend to the poor, but in no case should he retire on a fortune, no matter how magnificent, as long as he is in health, and thus permit some other man to take the place God intended him to occupy.

Such, then, in brief, is the moral and financial code of one of the richest men in the world.

On the other hand there is William Rockefeller, John's brother, who, being very comfortable himself, having a fortune of something like $40,000,000, entertains views entirely the opposite. He declares that when a man has got his share he should give way and spend the remaining days of his life in peace and prosperity. He has a villa on the Hudson and loves to roam the waters of the Atlantic in his trim and fast sailing yacht. A fleet footed horse is one of his greatest delights, and you will see him on Fifth avenue, New York, almost any fine day in season behind a spanking team of bays, or a polished span of blacks. He has all the money he wants and can spend his income without asking for help from on high. And then there is Col. Oliver H. Payne, who has also become a millionaire many times by reason of his interest in the Standard Oil company. Being a bachelor, but having two sisters—married and with families—he, too, has no trouble in disposing of his surplus cash.

Mrs. Whitney, wife of the ex-secretary of the navy, lives like a queen by virtue of her only brother's princely liberality. The other sister, Mrs. Charles W. Bingham, whose husband is in the hardware business in Cleveland, has but just moved into a long, low, wide palace which sweeps Lake Erie from a commanding elevation, a little east of this city. She, too, is enjoying the benefits of her brother's fortunate connection with John D. Rockefeller. Every one, in fact, who began with Rockefeller has become opulent, and his genius has converted porters into the heads of some of our first families, and tar roofers and day laborers, born abroad, into leading social and political figures. Men who would never have been heard of outside the precincts of their own firesides have become targets for the universal eye, simply because John D. Rockefeller was and is their business partner.

Next to him in genius as a consolidator and "crusher" of refiners and refineries comes Henry M. Flagler, whose father-in-law called him in from the pine forests of Michigan years ago and bought him an interest in the oil business with Rockefeller. The old gentleman had money, and as Rockefeller's note needed an indorser in those days the cash that Flagler brought him was the thing most needed. Flagler had not been a bright and shining business light by any means up to that time, but after he cast his fortunes with Rockefeller a change came o'er the scene and before long he was literally rolling in wealth. As a boy Flagler was ambitious to become a tavern keeper. That was the dream of his youth, but as he was as poor as Job's turkey is said to have been, he was compelled to stifle his ambition and turn his willing hand to something else.

Now, with a fortune close to $50,000,000, he is satisfying the desire of his boyhood days and is the proud possessor of three magnificent hotels in Florida, where you can get first class lodgings and all the delicacies of the season for something like $50 a day. It is not likely that Mr. Flagler will ever get even a fair dividend on the money he has invested in the south, but that makes very little difference to him. Nor will you find him behind the counter of any of his hotels, pen over ear, calling "front" and ordering a pitcher of ice water and a fire for room 13,325, or any other room for that matter. Nevertheless he is a landlord and is as happy in the possession of his three beautiful hotels as a king would be of as many crowns.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

With all his religious fervor and intimacy with certain men engaged in church and Sunday school work, John D. Rockefeller is as dumb as an oyster whenever a Baptist brother mentions the market to him with malice aforethought. He cynically argues that oil and religion are not to be considered collectively. He has two sets of friends. To the one he talks things temporal, to the other things spiritual. In this city, where he lives half his life, he has many co-laborers in church enterprises. He pays out of his own pocket half the expense of maintaining the Euclid Avenue Baptist church. He is superintendent of the Sunday school, and when he is in town performs the duties of the office. In his absence one of the two assistant superintendents takes his place. The second assistant is a well known business man, and has worked by the side of Rockefeller for years in the school and church. Some little time ago he found himself in possession of considerable crude oil, which he had bought on a margin at $1.05 a barrel. He felt that he had paid all the oil was worth and was undetermined what to do with it. He could sell and retire without having lost or won a penny. He could hold and run the chance of dropping his investment or adding a snug per cent. to it.

After thinking the matter over he concluded to call on Rockefeller. He did so, and after speaking of the Sunday school—artful man that he was—and the steady growth of membership, he incidentally spoke of the market. "I see that oil is $1.09," he said by way of an opening, "and I have about decided to buy a little." This was addressed as an inquiry more than it was spoken as a statement of fact. Mr. Rockefeller immediately changed the expression of his face. He crossed his knees and then he uncrossed them. He bent his body forward and proceeded to cross his knees again. But he never said a word. The assistant superintendent grew restless and, if the truth must be known, a trifle embarrassed. Meanwhile the legs of the great petroleum king were crossing each other without interruption, but that was the only demonstration he made. Finally the assistant superintendent became demonstrative and asked: "If you were me, what would you do?" Rockefeller was silent a moment, and then replied: "I would do as I thought best." Not a word more did he say, and his visitor departed as ignorant as when he came.

In a few days the Sunday school held its picnic in a grove near the city. Mr. Rockefeller always attends these yearly outings if he is in the country, and was present as usual on this particular occasion. During the day a messenger delivered a telegram to him. A little later he called the assistant superintendent and the two walked back into the forest. Rockefeller was as silent as a post, and led the way until he was at least a quarter of a mile from the scene of the picnic. Then he stopped and looked about him. When he was sure they were alone he turned to his assistant and said: "I have just heard that it is ninety cents today." Thereupon he left the spot while the assistant sank down on a log and groaned inwardly for the reason that he still held that cursed $1.09 oil. His investment was gone entire and with it a snug sum beside. It may be unnecessary to say it, but it is a fact nevertheless, that he never again went to Rockefeller for points on the market. This is given as an instance of his methods.

Mrs. Rockefeller, before her marriage, was a teacher in the public schools of this city. She is a home lover and thinks more of her children than she does of society. Unassuming in her manner and simple in her tastes, she is a pleasing entertainer, a model wife, a devoted mother and an educated and refined woman. The head of this remarkable family is equally as hospitable and equally as unostentatious as his wife. His dress is severe in its plainness, and were you to meet him by chance on a railway train or an ocean steamer and engage him in conversation you would not dream that you were talking with one of the richest men in the world. He carries himself just as he did a quarter of a century ago when he could count his thousands on the fingers of his one hand. He neither has the hardness of the so called self made man nor the artificial ornamentation of the man who has suddenly become a big figure in finance.

His father was a physician and he was reared in the good old fashioned way, even if he has forgotten some of the lessons that he learned at Sunday school in his youth. However, the moral standard that he originated for his own government is, no doubt, almost perfect viewed from his standpoint. He appears to be blind to the things which the majority of men can plainly see. Consolidation of the oil business in the hands of one corporation is to him an end glorious in conception and celestial in achievement. That might is right in business enterprises he fully believes. To force a small refiner to sell his plant or to ruin him by desperate competition are methods peculiar to Rockefeller and his associates, who follow him as a herd follows its master. In his home, however, Rockefeller is quite another man. There his code is as rigid as the ten commandments themselves. In the church and in society it is equally as correct. When he enters his business office, quite another place, you know, his character changes and instead of the devoted husband, the kind father, the devout churchman and the unostentatious citizen you face a cold, silent, heartless man of affairs. If you are an opposing refiner he will crush you without mercy; if you are a solicitor from some Baptist college he will in all probability write you his check for a thousand or two, for it is said that he gives away in this manner at least $500,000 a year. The remainder of his vast income is invested in railroad and other securities.

It is doubtful if the Rockefeller children really know that their father is the second most wealthy man in America. They have been educated in a sensible way and have been taught to respect a dollar and to keep it if not necessary to spend it. While they have not been reared to be miserly, they have surely learned that the possession of wealth does not warrant the production of spendthrifts and idle boys and girls of no use to their parents or society. A little story will illustrate the training they have received. Several years ago, while Miss Rockefeller was attending school in a town near New York city, the girls in her set concluded to purchase a Christmas gift for one of their teachers. They all contributed, and a committee was sent to the metropolis to select the present. Miss Rockefeller was a member of the purchasing delegation. They called at a leading furniture establishment and selected a writing desk, but it cost more than they had anticipated. Their collection amounted to $75 and the price of the desk was $100. Being inexperienced as shoppers, the girls were undecided what to do. They told the clerk that they were attending school near by and wanted the desk as a gift for their teacher. In turn he became confused and called one of the proprietors. The committee explained the situation to him in a modest way and suggested that he set the desk aside until they could return with the remaining $25.

The merchant asked if they could not refer him to some responsible New Yorker, for in that event they could have the desk and send him the balance at their own convenience. The girls declared that they were entire strangers in the city—one of them lived in Vermont, another in Pennsylvania, and the other in Cleveland, O. They were sorry, but they could not refer the merchant to any one and would go back to school, make another assessment, and send for the desk when they had collected the money to pay for it. They turned to leave the store, when an idea came to Miss Rockefeller. She called the merchant to her, and in a confused way said that she had almost forgotten that her father had an office a short distance down the street. She didn't know but perhaps he might "be good for the $25."

"What is his name?" asked the merchant.

"Mr. John D. Rockefeller," said the blushing little miss, quite sure that she was suggesting something quite improbable.

The merchant looked at her in amazement and then gasped: "What! Is John D. Rockefeller your father? Is he good for $25! Well, I should say he was. Here, Tom," said he, calling to a clerk, "have this desk shipped to Miss Rockefeller directly, and if she wants anything more give her cut figures and send everything by express prepaid."

I am truthful when I say that the amazement of Miss Rockefeller when she heard this astonishing order, was as great as that of the merchant when he learned that his shy little customer was the daughter of the richest man but one on the continent.

WORKING A HOG.

The Whole Town Caught the Idea When It Was Too Late.

When I entered the village, situated among the hills of New York, at 10 o'clock in the morning, all was peaceful and serene, and the pocket of every man who walked the streets had chink in it. When I left, at 4 p. m., an excited mob had possession of the main street and every other man was dead broke.

About noon a man arrived from the north in a buggy. He said he was a drover and looking for hogs. He bought half a dozen before he ate dinner, and it was astonishing how closely he guessed at their live weight. He was within two pounds on four of them and only half a pound more on the others. These had been an attraction for a crowd of idlers, and the general verdict was that the drover was as sharp as a barber's razor. Soon after dinner a farmer looking boy drove a hog into town and staked him out in front of the tavern. As he wanted to sell and the drover wanted to buy, they soon came together.

"Might take him on a pinch, but he's only a nubbins," said the drover as he sized the porker up.

"Nubbins! Why, that pig goes over 200 pounds!" exclaimed the owner.

"Can't stuff me, boy. I've been in the business twenty years."

"No one wants to stuff. That 'ere hog goes to 210."

"He does, eh! Wish your father had come in. I'd like to made a bet with him. Boy, you ought to have better judgment. That hog won't pull down 180."

"Guess you are off, too," remarked a stranger who had quietly driven up in a buggy. "I've raised hogs all my life, and that boy hain't five pounds out of his guess."

"Ain't he! Raised hogs, have you? Ever raise any money?"

"A little."

"Perhaps you'd like to bet on that hog?"

"Perhaps."

"Have you got $20 as says he goes 200?"

"I have—fifty—a hundred!"

"Then let's chalk. Anybody can blow."

It was a chance to make a dollar, and the citizens improved it. The man in the buggy was an accommodating chap, and somehow or other the farmer boy managed to fish up about a hundred dollars from the hind pocket of his overalls. The citizens stuck by the drover, having abundant proofs of his judgment, and when every man in that town who had a loose dollar or could borrow one had made his bet the hog was driven to the scales and weighed.

"Gentlemen," said the drover just before the weighing, "I was never deceived in my life. This hog won't go to 190 pounds."

"I'll take even bet that he goes over 200," replied the man in the buggy.

This bluff raked out the last nickel in the crowd, and the hog was driven upon the scales. The record was 211 pounds. He was weighed and reweighed, but the figures stood.

"Well, it's my first error in a hog," said the drover, and all bets were at once handed over. The farmer boy slipped out, the two men drove off in the buggy, and half an hour had elapsed before a church deacon, who had laid his ten with the drover and lost, suddenly declared that it was a put up job to skin the town.

"Durn my buttons if it hain't!" yelled 200 men in chorus, but it was too late. The town had been skinned, and the trio had escaped. All the mob could do was to turn loose and wreck an old vinegar factory and pass a resolution to the effect that liberty was a sham and a delusion.—New York Sun.

The Bishop and the Boy.

"What are you doing here, my lad?" "Tending swine, sir." "How much do you get?" "One florin a week, sir." "I also am a shepherd," continued the bishop, "but I have a much better salary." "That may be, but then I suppose you have more hogs under your care." The shepherd was about retiring when the boy continued: "Say, can God do anything?" "Yes, my boy." "Can he make a 2-year-old colt in two minutes?" "Why," said the astonished bishop, "he would not wish to do that, my boy." "But if he did want to, could he?" insisted the boy. "Yes, certainly, if he wished to." "What! in two minutes?" "Yes, in two minutes." "Well, then, he wouldn't be 2 years old, would he?" The bishop collapsed.—Philadelphia Press.

A Mean Man.

Goodfellow—Lend me a dollar, Jack.

Closefellow—You had a dollar in your pocket not twenty minutes ago.

"I know, but I dropped into the Dewdrop inn to get a free lunch and met a crowd of friends there, and of course I had to treat and it took all I had."

"Well, I don't feel like lending you anything. I can't spare it."

"Why, you had a dollar and a quarter in your pocket before you went out, and as you never pay over twenty-five cents for your lunch, you must have a dollar left. If there is anything I despise it is a mean man."—Philadelphia Record.

How She Distinguished Her Pies.

An old lady who lived in a New England town baked a mince and apple pie every Saturday. But after they were baked they were as bad as the "Two Dromios"—nobody knew which was which. She was not lacking, however, in the fertile ingenuity of her sex, and "Now," she triumphantly exclaimed, "I don't have no more trouble, 'cause I just mark with my crust cutter on the mince pie 'T. M.' ('tis mince), and on the apple pie 'T. M.' ('tain't mince)."—Philadelphia Press.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is simmered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless, but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine—of health.

SPRING MILLINERY

New Stock New Shapes and Attractive Novelties at Jennie Thomas

I am now prepared to show you an elegant line of Millinery. My hat and bonnet stock embraces all the desirable shapes of the season and new shapes will be added as they appear, all the new designs in flowers and ribbons, laces, veilings, ornaments and millinery novelties. I am prepared to re-shape straw work in shorter time than formerly and in most of the new shapes. I have engaged the service of a competent city trimmer, who with my efficient and well known trimmers can please the most fastidious. Ladies are invited to call and examine goods and work at Jennie Thomas' Main Street Millinery House.

Having adopted the city custom of disposing of all stock in its season, even at deeply cut prices, I have no old stock to offer, but all goods are new and attractive.

JENNIE THOMAS.

Notice

The public generally are hereby notified that my wife Jane O'Connell has abandoned me and my home without cause and refuses to longer carry out our marital relations and that I will not pay any debts contracted by her in my name. All persons are notified not to enter into any contract with or to furnish any means of support for her upon my credit from and after March 27th 1889.

MICHAEL O'CONNELL

Marion Ohio March 27th 1889.

The official board of the M. E. Church met Tuesday evening and heard the report of the committee on location of the new church, and then made the same committee one to sell the church property. It is understood that the committee and board favor building the new structure where the parsonage now is, on east Center street.

—Richard Wissler has accepted the leadership of the Opera Orchestra, and it will be under his teaching hereafter. This new orchestra is composed of some very promising young musicians, and under the teaching of Mr. Whistler, they will certainly be able to furnish some very fine music in a short time.

—One great feature of the Leonzo Bros. show is the remarkable fine shooting by Mr. Vic Leonzo who, during the performance will shoot two crackers off the noses of his trained dogs at the same shot, the dogs being some feet apart when the feat is accomplished.

—Mr. J. S. Adams, principal of the Edison schools, accompanied by two of his teachers, Misses Kirkpatrick and Meeker, were visiting our schools today, and were entertained by Sup't Crouse.
